CURRENT SITUATION

Current Situation:	GENERAL INFORMATION Today the Creek Fire showed no growth in acreage or containment. A focus remains preparing communities for repopulation in a safe environment for both residents, business owners, fire personnel, and others performing work within the fire area. Upon re-entry into affected areas all persons should be aware of posted speed limits, the presence of fire personnel working in the areas, and the presence of heavy equipment operating to remove damaged and hazardous trees. Residents should prepare for potential interruptions in utility services and follow recommendations by utility providers. Additionally, manufacturer recommendations for generator use and only use them outdoors to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning. Today, portions of communities in Burrough Valley, Tollhouse, Shaver Springs, Sycamore, and Watts Valley were repopulated. Additionally, businesses in the Shaver Lake area were assisted by CAL FIRE/Fresno County Fire Department to being preparations to support the eventual repopulation of the Shaver Lake and adjoining communities with essential services.

	WEATHER INFORMATION The Creek Fire experienced upslope and upcanyon winds today gusting up to fifteen miles per hour on ridgetops. It was also slightly warmer in the fire area but only one to two degrees. This led to generally calm fire conditions within the existing fire perimeter. Tomorrow a significant shift in weather will occur which will affect fire behavior. Downslope and downcanyon winds will begin midday tomorrow. This drier air will bring reduced humidities and poor moisture recovery, combined with increasing temperatures through midweek will increase expected fire behavior tomorrow. NORTH ZONE During today’s operational period the North Zone of the Creek Fire experienced minimal fire activity as an increase in overnight relative humidity allowed productive moisture recovery overnight. There will be firing operations in the areas south of Bass Lake to eliminate remaining fuels within control lines. While fire activity will remain moderated in the North Zone early tomorrow, the shift in weather tomorrow afternoon will likely cause an increase in fire behavior late during tomorrow’s operational period. SOUTH ZONE The Fire activity in the South Zone of the Creek Fire today did not significantly increase the existing fire perimeter. Areas of the fire experiencing the most activity was south of Mount Tom and the most eastern portion of the South Zone east of China Peak. Southwestern and southeastern areas of the fire around Shaver Lake, Burrough Mountain, and Auberry did not have fire growth, although the fire continued to smolder within the existing perimeter in the heavier fuels such as timber and dense fuel beds. Operationally, fire resources will perform tactical patrol near the fire perimeter mopping up hot spots and ensuring structures are prepared for defense in the event the fire approaches communities. Containment remains are priority as well, where handcrews will be deployed in areas where heavy equipment (i.e. bulldozers) cannot be utilized due to challenging terrain.
