CURRENT SITUATION

Current Situation:	GENERAL INFORMATION Containment remained at 39% with no reported growth on the Creek Fire during today's operational period. As areas under evacuation warning and orders are repopulated residents, business owners, and others returning to the area must do so safely. Adhering to posted speed limits, following guidance of utility providers, and following manufacturer recommendations on auxiliary equipment (e.g. generators) must be implemented for the safe return to areas where orders and warnings are being lifted. Special attention must also be given to heavy machinery and firefighting apparatus still operating in the area. Residents should prepare for potential interruptions in utility services and follow recommendations by utility providers. Additionally, manufacturer recommendations for generator use and only using them outdoors to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning within enclosed spaced such as homes and businesses.

	NORTH ZONE On the North Zone of the fire today, activity was moderated in the very early portion of the operational period due to to early low humidity in the thirties before it drops later in the afternoon into the teens. There was slight progression of the fire towards the northeast near Cattle Mountain. Fire activity will be present in Chetwood Creek, Norris Lake, East Fore Chiquito, and Northeast of Little Shuteye Peak, and south of Whisky Falls. Fire resources on the North Zone will remain committed to improving containment line utilizing heavy equipment and handcrews where bulldozers are unable to make access. There have also been preparations to ensure threatened structure are protected. SOUTH ZONE Today on the South Zone of the Creek Fire, it was more active on the eastern portion of the zone towards the 80 Road and Potter Pass. As the fire continues to burn on the east side, the goal is to keep it north of Kaiser Pass. If the fire moves into sparser fuels progression will slow as it moves towards the Ansel Adams Wilderness. Operationally, fire resources will perform tactical patrol near the fire perimeter mopping up hot spots and ensuring structures are prepared for defense in the event the fire approaches communities. Containment remains a priority, and handcrews will be deployed in areas where heavy equipment (i.e. bulldozers) cannot be utilized due to challenging terrain. WEATHER INFORMATION The significant change in weather brought downslope and downcanyon winds. The fire experienced drier air with reduced humidities and will have poorer moisture recovery in the evening. Combined with increasing temperatures through midweek, there will be increased fire behavior in all areas of the fire as fuels are able to preheat earlier in the day and hot spots will show more open flame and smoke. Stable atmospheric conditions will allow smoke from active areas of the fire within the existing perimeter to rise higher than in prior days. These may present as columns, which can shade other portions of the fire from sunlight, ultimately reducing fire intensity. Fire resoures will be patrolling and mopping up in all areas of the fire as part of their tactical patrols and efforts to fully contain the Creek Fire.
